STATE FISHING ZONES MAY BE ABOLISHED

SENATE AND HOUSE HEAR MANY COMPLAINTS

BRAINERD DELEGATION GAINS HEARING BEFORE SENATE GAME AND FISH COM.

HOUSE STRIKES OUT FISHING ZONES FROM GAME AND FISH "OMNIBUS BILL"

Brainerd delegates from the Chamber of Commerce, the Game & Fish club and the Izaak Walton League yesterday afternoon appeared before the Senate Game and Fish Committee to make known their desires on pending game and fish legislation.

The following delegates were in attendance and voiced their opinions: William V. Turcotte, A. A. Weideman, Joseph Hebert, R. D. King, Henry I. Cohen, representing the Game & Fish club and the Izaak Walton League; Henry I. Cohen, Chamber of Commerce, H. D. Ayer of the Mille Lacs Lake Indian Trading Post, was also present as was a representative of Captain William H. Fawcett, the latter being unable to attend on account of a cold.

The delegation recommended that the legislature should abolish fish zone laws; permit fish house spearing for domestic use in December, January and February; abolish spring spearing; limit bass to five regardless of size; favor a "one buck law" and an open season every year; prevent pollution of streams and lakes.

They also agreed that skunks, like oysters, should be taken in every month with an "R" in it.

As a result of pressure brought to bear by several official delegations representing sporting organizations, clubs and bodies from the northern part of the state, the house committee on game and fish yesterday afternoon went on record favoring the abolition of fishing zones in the state.

As a result the fishing zones were stricken out of the game and fish "omnibus" bill yesterday by the house committee on game and fish. The committee recommended that the bass, crappie and sunfish season open June 15 all over the state. The season formerly opened on May 23 in the southern zone and June 29 in the northern zone.

Another recommendation of the committee provides a 50 cent resident fishing license for every person over 16. The non-resident license would remain the same, $3.

Pike and pickerel could be caught after May 15, the same as the present law, but the limit would be changed from 15 to 10 a day. No person would be permitted to have more than 20 in his possession.

TWO YEGGMEN ROB BILLINGS, MISSOURI, BANK IN MORNING

Billings, Mo., March 16.—(UP)—While Billings slept peacefully and after the only two persons awake in the town were securely bound with ropes, two yeggmens used three charges of explosive to blow open the safe of the bank of Billings, early today, escaping with approximately $5,000 in currency.

The robbers entered the town at about 1:30 a. m., seized the town night watchman and tied him to a chair. They then tied up the telegraph operator in the railroad station and proceeded to loot the bank. When the operator and night watchman managed to release themselves, a posse was hurriedly organized and started after the robber car.

No trace of the looters had been reported at noon today.

DISMISSAL OF TEACHER BRINGS STRIKE THREATS

Superior, Wis., March 16.—(UP)—Dismissal of Miss Lulu J. Dickerson from the faculty of the Superior Central high school brought threats of a strike from students today. Several hundred students stormed a meeting of the Parent-Teacher association at the school Tuesday night, assumed charge and organized a movement for the removal of Paul R. Spencer, city superintendent of schools, and all members of the board of education.

Miss Dickerson, who had served 20 years as a member of the Superior Central high school faculty, was dismissed suddenly by the school board Monday.

FEAR SEPARATION FROM ILLNESS, CHOOSE DEATH

Topeka, Kan., March 16.—(UP)—Rather than face a separation necessitated by the illness of the wife, a middle-aged couple here chose death.

Mrs. Frank C. Covell had been ill for months and it was feared she would live only a short time longer. Covell entered the hospital yesterday, after writing his wife a letter, shot the woman through the head as she lay in a bed and then committed suicide.

In the letter, Covell told his wife he couldn't get along without her and asked her to nod her head if "it would be all right with her." He then explained his plan and went into detail about funeral arrangements he had made.

The Covells were about 50 years old and had been married for over twenty years.

U. S. MARINES RECOVER AN OIL BARGE AT SHANGHAI

NOT A SHOT FIRED BY THE MARINES IN RECAPTURING IT

CLAIMED CHINESE FIRED SHOTS AT THE U. S. DESTROYER PREBLE

Shanghai, March 16.—(UP)—United States marines today recovered without firing a shot a Standard Oil barge which had been commandeered by Chinese soldiers.

The barge was seized at the mouth of Soochow creek, under the nose of the foreign fleets.

Fifty bluejackets have been landed here from the Spanish warship Blazquez.

Peking, March 16.—The United States legation today considered protesting to the Chinese against firing of shots at the U. S. destroyer Preble near Wuhu, if investigation disclosed to which faction the offending troops belonged.

The Preble's crew returned the fire of the Chinese. No Americans were injured although several bullets struck the bridge of the Preble. The legation did not consider the incident serious.

New York, March 16.—American missionaries in Wuhu and Hankow are safe and anti-foreign conditions in both cities have been exaggerated. Episcopal mission headquarters here were informed by agents in the field today.

There is "no cause for anxiety or alarm" in Wuhu and "no necessity for leaving stations at the present time," the Rev. Daniel T. Huntington reported in a cablegram.

It is safer for mission women and children to remain in Hankow than to attempt to leave, although they are prepared to evacuate on short notice if necessary, the Rev. Logan H. Roots said.

"Everybody in Shanghai is safe, thanks to presence of English troops," Rev. Frederick Rogers Graves cabled.

800 FARMERS INSPECT SO. ST. PAUL PACKING PLANTS

South St. Paul, Minn., March 16.—(UP)—Eight hundred southern Minnesota farmers today inspected the packing industries here as guests of the Central Commission association.

A special train carried the visitors to South St. Paul where the party was divided into groups and at once began an all day tour of the 'yards' slaughter houses and packing plants.

Although no special luncheon was given the visitors at noon the Central Commission arranged the hour so that the guests met in the various restaurants maintained by the industries.

Following the tour of the various departments of the plants, the party was to be carried back to their homes on another special train.

Delegates comprising the party were from the following counties: Goodhue, Rice, Blue Earth, Le Sueur, Steele, Waseca and Dakota.

Severe March Blizzard Continues to Sweep Western Canada, Blocking Roads and Trains

BRIBE MONEY CHARGE MADE BY A WORKER

MAY BE TAKEN UP BY STATE SENATE INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE

CORNEARY ALLEGES HE WAS OFFERED MONEY TO HELP "GET" SCHALL

St. Paul, March 16.—(UP)—A. N. Jacobs, campaign manager for U. S. Senator Thomas D. Schall in the 1924 elections, today refused to answer charges made by Frank Corneary, another worker, concerning bribe money alleged to have been offered Corneary if he would help "get" Schall.

Jacobs said the place to take up such charges was in the state senate investigations committee, which will begin a probe of Schall's election today.

Nearly 100 witnesses are said to be prepared to face the committee to give testimony in the probe instituted by opponents of the blind senator who claim he was guilty of conspiracy in the senatorial race.

Senator W. A. Blanchard, Anoka, chairman of the investigating committee, refused to name any of the witnesses on call, but indicated that the machinery of the probe was prepared for full production operation today.

While the committee planned to open the investigation in the offices set apart for the rules committee, it was believed that the entire case would be moved to the senate chamber to accommodate the hundreds of spectators who will attend the hearings.

LURED BY THE REPORTS OF A NEW GOLD STRIKE

IS DECLARED TO RIVAL THE WEALTH OF WEEPAH, NEVADA

PROSPECTS FLOCKING OVER THE HILLS TOWARD ARIZONA FIND

Phoenix, Ariz., March 16.—(UP)—Lured by reports of a new gold strike rivaling the wealth of the Weepah, Nev., field, caravans of prospectors today were wending their way over the hills from here toward Dripping Springs Valley.

The new strike was reported at Cowboy Mine about 125 miles from here. C. W. McGraw, a veteran prospector, is credited with the discovery.

One running as high as $60,000 a ton has been assayed by the Arizona assay office, according to W. W. Lawhon, a prominent Arizona mining man.

Lawhon has been working on the ground for several weeks and already has staked out several claims. News of the strike leaked out yesterday and before night the gold rush was under way.

Other prospectors had been at work secretly for weeks since first indication of the strike. Using both old fashioned and modern mining methods—pick, shovel, dynamite and pan—they have unearthed a large amount of gold, the value of which has not been determined.

In one of the properties a nugget weighing 22 ounces was found.

TO OPEN BIDS ON DULUTH'S NEW CITY HALL

Duluth, Minn., March 16.—(UP)—Bids on Duluth's new $750,000 city hall will be opened here today, city commissioners announced yesterday.

The contract is expected to be let to the successful bidder on Monday, March 21.

PRESBYTERIAN HOSPITAL NURSES WILL DANCE!

Denver, Colo., March 16.—(UP)—Whether Denver ministers like it or not, the Presbyterian hospital nurses are going to dance tonight, a spokesman for the nurses declared today.

It seemed the nurses had made all preparations for a charity ball tonight—rented a large ball room, hired an orchestra, and sold most of the tickets—when a group of ministers voiced protests against public dances given under auspices of the church.

But the nurses had gone too far in their plans to stop so easily. Most of them had "dates." So they decided to hold a private dance instead.

ACTUAL FIGHT ON IN FORD-SAPIRO SUIT

PRELIMINARIES OVER IN THE LIBEL CASE AT DETROIT

JURY FINISHED, OPENING STATEMENTS MADE, EVIDENCE TAKING FOLLOWS

By M. D. TRACY (United Press Staff Correspondent) Detroit, March 15.—With preliminaries over and the question of whether Henry Ford is going to testify settled in the affirmative, today should mark the beginning of actual hostilities in the Ford-Sapiro libel suit.

With the jury finished yesterday and the opening statements under way, evidence should be reached by afternoon. From then on fur is expected to fly, as Ford's lawyers pursue their announced—but not as yet effective—intention of keeping the so-called Jewish issue out of the case, and attorneys for Aaron Sapiro begin getting into evidence the things Ford is alleged to have said about their client.

Compared to the massive evidence Ford is expected to present, the case of Sapiro will be short.

The jury presents an interesting cross-section of American society. It is divided equally between men and women. There are four Catholics and eight Protestants. There are two men whose ages must be beyond 65; and two women who would resent being called 35.

LEGISLATURE TODAY

Senate Met at 10 a. m. Bill introduced by Senators Christgau and Hougren providing for state-wide licensing of all dogs through local agency of county auditor.

Sen. Conrad Olson introduced bill raising age of children under definition of delinquent from 18 to 21 years.

New teachers' retirement fund bill introduced by five senators. Senators Lawson and Day presented bill for nomination and election of all elective officers without party designation, except presidential electors, senators and representatives in congress.

Opening fight between administration and anti-administration forces in senate finance committee expected late today on question of school aid appropriations.

Investigation of election of Senator Thomas D. Schall scheduled to begin before special senate committee at 8 p. m. Adjournment until 10 p. m. Thursday.

House Met at 2 p. m. Nearly 100 bills presented as time for introduction ends.

Hearing called for 9 a. m. Friday before tax committee on bill to levy two cent tax on each package of 20 cigarettes.

Debate on bill creating state board of massage examiners. Rep. Albert Lagerstedt, Gibson, proposed resolution protesting against further consideration of anti-evolution measures.

STORM BROKE AT REGINA ON MONDAY

STREET CAR AND AUTOMOBILE TRAFFIC AT STANDSTILL AT SASKATOON

PASSENGERS ARE MAROONED ON CANADIAN TRAINS AT SEVERAL POINTS

Winnipeg, Man., March 16.—(UP)—A severe March blizzard continued to sweep western Canada today, blocking roads throughout Saskatchewan and Alberta and holding up trains.

Search was being made in the Calgary, Alta., district for Martin and Roy Bridgesky, 13-year-old twins, who are missing.

The storm broke at Regina at 7 P. M. Monday and has raged ever since. Street car and automobile traffic at Saskatoon is at a standstill.

Passengers are marooned on Canadian National trains at several points. The trains are awaiting the arrival of snow plows to clear the tracks. None are suffering any discomfort.

Edmonton also is experiencing the blizzard. Lower temperatures and strong north winds prevail throughout the prairie west. The sun is shining in Winnipeg today, and the storm had not reached here, but came into Manitoba at Brandon, where sleet and snow began to fall.

HEART-BROKEN GIRL ABSOLVED OF ALL BLAME

HAD THROWN BUTCHER KNIFE AT BROTHER AND KILLED HIM

VERDICT OF EXCUSABLE HOMICIDE RETURNED BY CORONER'S JURY

Owatonna, Minn., March 16.—(UP)—A heart-broken 13-year-old girl was back in her home today absolved of blame in the death of her 15-year-old brother who was almost instantly killed during a scuffle.

A verdict of excusable homicide was returned by a coroner's jury following an investigation into the death of Ervin Brockmiller who was fatally cut by a butcher knife thrown by his sister Lavera.

Evidence indicated that the act was unpremeditated and that Lavera who was caught in the painful grasp of her brother, whirled about to pick up something to throw at him and unwittingly grasped the butcher knife.

Mrs. Herman F. Brockmiller, the mother, told the jury that there was no quarrel between the children other than good-natured teasing. The first she knew of the tragedy, she said, was when the boy cried, "I'm stabbed."

Ervin lived but a moment after the unfortunate toss of the knife thrust the point between his ribs, piercing the heart.

Miss Ruth Jones, teacher of the rural school where both children had been pupils, held Lavera in her arms as she told the jury that the child was a model student and had always conducted herself in the most gentle fashion.

DIED FROM FIRST ILLNESS OF HER LIFE

Clinton, Mo., March 16.—(UP)—Funeral services were held here yesterday for Mrs. George W. Nutt, 102, who died from the first illness of her life. She had been active and mentally alert up to the time of her death. Mrs. Nutt was the mother of 12 children and had 170 living descendants.

HAVE LITTLE HOPE OF SAVING LIFE OF DEVOTED MOTHER

Paisley, Ore., March 16.—(UP)—Physicians today held little hope of saving the life of Mrs. D. W. Amburger found half frozen at the side of the dead bodies of her two small children in the timber wilderness near Paisley.

A third child which Mrs. Amburger held at her breast during two days of wandering, will recover, the physicians believe.

Mrs. Amburger's legs were frozen to the hips. Her critical condition was made more serious, it was said, by hysteria over the loss of her two children.

"THRILL" SLAYER "BABE" LEOPOLD TO BE QUESTIONED

TO FIND OUT WHAT PART, IF ANY, HE HAD IN ATTEMPTED ESCAPE

WHOLESALE BREAK OF 1,200 PRISONERS FROM JOLIET THWARTED

Chicago, March 16.—(UP)—The debonair, sneering and well educated Nathan "Babe" Leopold—one of the "thrill" slayers of Robert Franks—will be questioned today as to what part, if any, he took in the attempted wholesale escape of 1,200 prisoners from the state penitentiary at Joliet.

Leopold, serving a life sentence at Joliet, was involved in the plot yesterday by Leo Delgoda, a former convict, who said Leopold was financing a scheme to poison the guards at the institution, thereby making it possible for all the convicts to escape.

He said Leopold—son of a multi-millionaire Chicago family—had $8,000 in cash to finance the escape. First hints of the investigation centering on the one-time collegian came following the escape of three Mexican murderers from the Will county jail at Joliet Saturday. The three Mexicans with three other prisoners escaped from the state penitentiary at Joliet last summer and Leopold's name has been interviewed repeatedly with that escape.

Authorities investigating how the three Mexicans—Bernardo Roa, Robert Torrez and Gregorio Rizzo—broke from the jail, arrested Delgoda. He told the fantastic story of a plot, engineered by Leopold, to free all of the prisoners in the penitentiary. Roa, Torrez, Rizzo, and Charles Duschowski, Charles Shader and Walter Stalesky—who were with the Mexicans in the prison break last summer—were involved in the wholesale escape plans, according to Delgoda.

"I place little credence in Delgoda's story," State's Attorney Rehn said at Joliet. "Any prisoner will say anything he thinks might help his own case."

A like statement was expressed by Warden Green of the penitentiary, while a member of Leopold's family declared he never had $8,000 since being confined in the prison.

Says her lover urged her to poison family

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 16.—(UP)—Mrs. Bernhardt Peterson was held in the county jail here today while authorities investigated her story that a lover had urged her to poison her family so she could elope with him.

Two children, one her two year old son and a motherless baby of 18 months whom she was rearing, died at the Peterson home a week ago after eating food which police say had been treated with strychnine. Her husband and other members of the family had declared the food "bitter" and refused to eat it.

At the double funeral of the children, Mrs. Peterson became hysterical, threatened to end her life and collapsed. She was placed under the care of a nurse Sunday night. The next day she was removed to a hospital after she had become violent.

REPORTS DOWN STREAM ARE MORE SERIOUS

ANOKA, ST. CLOUD, RED WING, EYE "FATHER OF WATERS" QUESTIONINGLY

AT ST. CLOUD RIVER IS WELL ABOVE THE 10 FOOT LEVEL, STILL RISING

Floods menaced Mississippi river communities today as ice moved out rapidly following one of the warmest March days in weather bureau history.

Dynamite was used to break up an 80-acre ice field above the Cook Rapids dam near Anoka Tuesday and the seriousness of today's swell was lessened as a result, although the river overflowed into the second ward lowlands of Anoka.

The highest stage in years was reported at Winona and a similar situation prevailed at Red Wing.

A rapid rise was noted at St. Cloud.

A still greater raise in the level of the river was feared at St. Paul late today when a heavy rain started falling.

Red Wing, Minnesota, March 16.—Although the Mississippi river was eight feet above normal here today, there was no fear of damage except to "Bootleg Island."

Red Wing, situated on the bluffs, is well out of reach of the river even during flood stage, but the little island across stream, said to house a colony of bootleggers, will be inundated if the river rises much higher. The river was increased less than a foot in height today.

St. Paul, March 16.—(UP)—While the Mississippi river continued its alarming rise here today, reports from down stream indicated a still more threatening situation.

Anoka, St. Cloud and Red Wing eyed the "Father of Waters" questioningly as colonies in the flat sections became inundated and the river lapped at the lower streets.

Anoka reported a more than six foot rise in the past 24 hours with the Mississippi backing up in the Rum river.

At St. Cloud the river was well above the 10 foot level and was still rising.

Red Wing reported more than eight feet above normal and Winona the same figure.

Residents of the river-boat colony here had practically deserted their homes today. Many moved their belongings to high ground in row boats. The house boats are certain to be inundated soon for their keels are frozen in the bottom ice and they are firmly anchored.

Cooler weather today was looked for to relieve the situation although temperatures mounted to 69 Tuesday and vast quantities of water poured into the head streams from the snow covered banks in the north.

Anoka, Minn., March 16.—The Mississippi river was about seven feet above normal stage here today, but had receded slightly from the mark reached during the night, lessening the danger of a serious flood in the lowland parts of Anoka.

There was a slight overflow of the river in the second ward, but the water did no more than form puddles in yards. Cellars were not affected. Water from the Mississippi backed up into the Rum river; but high banks prevented an overflow.

A threatening situation above the Coon Rapids dam of the Northern States Power Company was averted by Stuart Laird, the superintendent, who dynamited 80 acres of ice on Tuesday.

This ice was sluiced out, leaving the river clear for some distance above the dam.

Winona, Minn., March 16.—The Mississippi river here today was seven feet, five inches above normal level, the highest stage reached in years. Lowlands both above and below Winona were flooded, but no serious damage has been done as yet.

Wausau, Wis., March 16.—Indications of early spring came today with a breakup in the ice on the Wisconsin river. It is the earliest ice breakup in 50 years.

STORM BROKE AT REGINA ON MONDAY

STREET CAR AND AUTOMOBILE TRAFFIC AT STANDSTILL AT SASKATOON

PASSENGERS ARE MAROONED ON CANADIAN TRAINS AT SEVERAL POINTS

Winnipeg, Man., March 16.—(UP)—A severe March blizzard continued to sweep western Canada today, blocking roads throughout Saskatchewan and Alberta and holding up trains.

Search was being made in the Calgary, Alta., district for Martin and Roy Bridgesky, 13-year-old twins, who are missing.

The storm broke at Regina at 7 P. M. Monday and has raged ever since. Street car and automobile traffic at Saskatoon is at a standstill.

Passengers are marooned on Canadian National trains at several points. The trains are awaiting the arrival of snow plows to clear the tracks. None are suffering any discomfort.

Edmonton also is experiencing the blizzard. Lower temperatures and strong north winds prevail through out the prairie west. The sun is shining in Winnipeg today, and the storm had not reached here, but came into Manitoba at Brandon, where sleet and snow began to fall.

HEART-BROKEN GIRL ABSOLVED OF ALL BLAME

HAD THROWN BUTCHER KNIFE AT BROTHER AND KILLED HIM

VERDICT OF EXCUSABLE HOMICIDE RETURNED BY CORONER'S JURY

Owatonna, Minn., March 16.—(UP)—A heart-broken 13-year-old girl was back in her home today absolved of blame in the death of her 15-year-old brother who was almost instantly killed during a scuffle.

A verdict of excusable homicide was returned by a coroner's jury following an investigation into the death of Ervin Brockmiller who was fatally cut by a butcher knife thrown by his sister Lavera.

Evidence indicated that the act was unpremeditated and that Lavera who was caught in the painful grasp of her brother, whirled about to pick up something to throw at him and unthinkingly grasped the butcher knife.

Mrs. Herman F. Brockmiller, the mother, told the jury that there was no quarrel between the children other than good-natured teasing. The first she knew of the tragedy, she said, was when the boy cried, "I'm stabbed."

Ervin lived but a moment after the unfortunate toss of the knife thrust the point between his ribs, piercing the heart.

Miss Ruth Jones, teacher of the rural school where both children had been pupils, held Lavera in her arms as she told the jury that the child was a model student and had always conducted herself in the most gentle fashion.

DIED FROM FIRST ILLNESS OF HER LIFE

Clinton, Mo., March 16.—(UP)—Funeral services were held here yesterday for Mrs. George W. Nutt, 102, who died from the first illness of her life. She had been active and mentally alert up to the time of her death. Mrs. Nutt was the mother of 12 children and had 170 living descendants.

HAVE LITTLE HOPE OF SAVING LIFE OF DEVOTED MOTHER

Paisley, Ore., March 16.—(UP)—Physicians today held little hope of saving the life of Mrs. D. W. Amburger found half frozen at the side of the dead bodies of her two small children in the timber wilderness near Paisley.

A third child which Mrs. Amburger held at her breast during two days of wandering, will recover, the physicians believe.

Mrs. Amburger's legs were frozen to the hips. Her critical condition was made more serious, it was said, by hysteria over the loss of her two children.

"THRILL" SLAYER "BABE" LEOPOLD TO BE QUESTIONED

TO FIND OUT WHAT PART, IF ANY, HE HAD IN ATTEMPTED ESCAPE

WHOLESALE BREAK OF 1,200 PRISONERS FROM JOLIET THWARTED

Chicago, March 16.—(UP)—The debonair, sneering and well educated Nathan "Babe" Leopold—one of the "thrill" slayers of Robert Franks—will be questioned today as to what part, if any, he took in the attempted wholesale escape of 1,200 prisoners from the state penitentiary at Joliet.

Leopold, serving a life sentence at Joliet, was involved in the plot yesterday by Leo Delgoda, a former convict, who said Leopold was financing a scheme to poison the guards at the institution, thereby making it possible for all the convicts to escape. He said Leopold—son of a multi-millionaire Chicago family—had $8,000 in cash to finance the escape.

First hints of the investigation came following the escape of three Mexican murderers from the Will county jail at Joliet Saturday. The three Mexicans with three other prisoners escaped from the state penitentiary at Joliet last summer and Leopold's name has been interwoven repeatedly with that escape.

Authorities investigating how the three Mexicans—Bernardo Roa, Robert Torrez and Gregorio Rizzo—broke from the jail, arrested Delgoda. He told the fantastic story of a plot, engineered by Leopold, to free all of the prisoners in the penitentiary. Roa, Torrez, Rizzo, and Charles Duschowski, Charles Shadr and Walter Stalesky—who were with the Mexicans in the prison break last summer—were involved in the wholesale escape plans, according to Delgoda.

"I place little credence in Delgoda's story," State's Attorney Rehn said at Joliet. "Any prisoner will say anything he thinks might help his own case."

A like statement was expressed by Warden Green of the penitentiary, while a member of Leopold's family declared he never had $8,000 since being confined in the prison.

SAYS HER LOVER URGED HER TO POISON FAMILY

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 16.—(UP)—Mrs. Bernhardt Peterson was held in the county jail here today while authorities investigated her story that a lover had urged her to poison her family so she could elope with him.

Two children, one her two year old son and a motherless baby of 18 months whom she was rearing, died at the Peterson home a week ago after eating food which police say had been treated with strychnine. Her husband and other members of the family had declared the food "bitter" and refused to eat it.

At the double funeral of the children, Mrs. Peterson became hysterical, threatened to end her life and collapsed. She was placed under the care of a nurse Sunday night. The next day she was removed to a hospital after she had become violent.

REPORTS DOWN STREAM ARE MORE SERIOUS

ANOKA, ST. CLOUD, RED WING, EYE "FATHER OF WATERS" QUESTIONINGLY

AT ST. CLOUD RIVER IS WELL ABOVE THE 10 FOOT LEVEL, STILL RISING

Floods menaced Mississippi river communities today as ice moved out rapidly following one of the warmest March days in weather bureau history.

Dynamite was used to break up an 80-acre ice field above the Cook Rapids dam near Anoka Tuesday and the seriousness of today's swell was lessened as a result, although the river overflowed into the second ward lowlands of Anoka.

The highest stage in years was reported at Winona and a similar situation prevailed at Red Wing.

A rapid rise was noted at St. Cloud.

A still greater raise in the level of the river was feared at St. Paul late today when a heavy rain started falling.

Red Wing, Minnesota, March 16.—Although the Mississippi river was eight feet above normal here today, there was no fear of damage except to "Bootleg Island."

Red Wing, situated on the bluffs, is well out of reach of the river even during flood stage, but the little island across stream, said to house a colony of bootleggers, will be inundated if the river rises much higher. The river was increased less than a foot in height today.

St. Paul, March 16.—(UP)—While the Mississippi river continued its alarming rise here today, reports from down stream indicated a still more threatening situation.

Anoka, St. Cloud and Red Wing eyed the "Father of Waters" questioningly as colonies in the flat sections became inundated and the river lapped at the lower streets.

Anoka reported a more than six foot rise in the past 24 hours with the Mississippi backing up in the Rum river.

At St. Cloud the river was well above the 10 foot level and was still rising.

Red Wing reported more than eight feet above normal and Winona the same figure.

Residents of the river-boat colony here had practically deserted their homes today. Many moved their belongings to high ground in row boats. The house boats are certain to be inundated soon for their keels are frozen in the bottom ice and they are firmly anchored.

Cooler weather today was looked for to relieve the situation although temperatures mounted to 69 Tuesday and vast quantities of water poured into the head streams from the snow covered banks in the north.

Anoka, Minn., March 16.—The Mississippi river was about seven feet above normal stage here today, but had receded slightly from the mark reached during the night, lessening the danger of a serious flood in the lowland parts of Anoka.

There was a slight overflow of the river in the second ward, but the water did no more than form puddles in yards. Cellars were not affected. Water from the Mississippi backed up into the Rum river; but high banks prevented an overflow.

A threatening situation above the Coon Rapids dam of the Northern States Power Company was averted by Stuart Laird, the superintendent, who dynamited 80 acres of ice on Tuesday.

This ice was sluiced out, leaving the river clear for some distance above the dam.

Winona, Minn., March 16.—The Mississippi river here today was seven feet, five inches above normal level, the highest stage reached in years. Lowlands both above and below Winona were flooded, but no serious damage has been done as yet.

Wausau, Wis., March 16.—Indications of early spring came today with a breakup in the ice on the Wisconsin river. It is the earliest ice breakup in 50 years.

The accident occurred when Fire Chief C. W. Ringer turned in an alarm from a downtown corner to show a party of business men an exhibition run of the department.

Preparations are being rapidly completed for the big jamboree that the Whittier Parent-Teacher's association will give Saturday evening, March 19, at the Whittier school. It will be another notable event in the annals of the association and is being looked forward to with much interest by both parents and pupils.

The candy booth always popular at public gatherings will be presided over by a group of teachers, the Misses Skarsten, Hughey, Pagel, Mary Walsh, Elizabeth Walsh, Poppenberg, Swanberg, Barret, and Mrs. R. L. Geist.

A "weighing" show put on by City Engineer R. T. Campbell and Commissioner Frank Lowey should prove quite an innovation to those who attend.

The fish pond will be furnished by a committee composed of Mrs. J. H. Kinney, Mrs. Kelly Davis, Mrs. A. M. Opsahl, Dr. Grace Williams, Mrs. A. C. Ebert.

Refreshments consisting of wieners, apple pie a la mode, doughnuts, pop, ice cream, etc., will be prepared by the Mesdames J. C. Clausen, Edward Anderson, J. E. Jackson, Herbert Paine, A. L. Alexander, J. F. Cibuzar, all noted cooks who will combine their talents for the event.

Mrs. W. W. Bane, Mrs. F. E. Stout and Mrs. Frank G. Hall are on the general arrangements committee. Doors will be open at 7 p. m. and visitors are asked to come early and avoid the rush.

EXHIBITION RUN OF MILL CITY FIREMEN ENDS DISASTROUSLY

Minneapolis, March 16.—(UP)—An exhibition run by the Minneapolis fire department late Tuesday ended disastrously in the injury of four persons when a hook and ladder truck crashed with an automobile.

William Tema, 25, driver of the automobile and John Gilbert, 41, a pedestrian, were in serious condition in a hospital here today, while Miss Lois Cloutier, also a pedestrian and Jacob Simonich, 34, driver of the fire truck were less seriously injured.

Tema and Gilbert were given little chance for recovery since both suffered fractured skulls and internal injuries.

Miss Cloutier was said to be recovering from injuries about her body while Simonich, the fireman, was already released from the hospital where his cuts and contusions were treated.

The accident occurred when Fire Chief C. W. Ringer turned in an alarm from a downtown corner to show a party of business men an exhibition run of the department.

Ellen Was Her Dad's Escort

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

(Copyright.)

THE very first time David saw her he realized that the fellows who wrote about love at first sight knew exactly what they were yarning about. "It not only can happen," muttered David as he watched her assisting her father onto the 8:33 train, "but it has happened. If I don't find some way of meeting and marrying that girl with the gray eyes and red hair—then it'll be me for lone bachelorhood for the rest of my days."

He was frightfully disappointed that she did not board the train also.

It was apparent that her father was recovering from some illness and that she was escorting him to his train to see that no harm befell him. David supposed she also would meet him in the evening.

Good luck was with David that morning for he was able by a little judicious shoving to obtain the seat beside her father.

"So far, so good," he inwardly commented as he settled himself beside the man who he hoped would some day be his father-in-law. Meantime he was casting about in his mind for a speedy and likely opening toward lasting conversation.

It came in a very pleasant way. The village bore, Fred Norwood, was making his way through the train and all eyes became glued to papers as he passed by lest perchance he might stop and talk. Scarcely a soul spoke to him so fearful were they that a passing word might lead to a full hour of his conversation which consisted entirely of Fred's troubles.

The girl's father was unfortunate enough to have let Fred catch his eye and would have been lost had not David turned a broad shoulder and thus effectively barred the boring one's speech from reaching the older man's ears.

When the danger was past the two turned to each other with a grin.

"Close shave, that," said the girl's father, "you saved me from an hour's tedium."

"Yes—frightful bore, isn't he? I've heard about his attack of indigestion after eating cucumbers and salmon so many times that I pretty nearly have it myself when he's done."

The elder man seemed ready to chat rather than read the paper.

"There's nothing in these papers any more but suicides, daylight robberies and murders—one gets fed up."

"You're right," said David, "and columns of road accidents."

The father laughed, "Yes, the road accidents worry my daughter. She frets until I get home at night. She sees me on the train every morning and—"

David laughed and drew a trifle nearer the old man. "Speaking of your daughter—I'm most rightfully in love with her—did you know that?"

His companion looked his astonishment, but a half grin swept over his face.

"But why haven't I met you—seen you about the house?"

"That's just what I want to know," said David. "It's been a little trick of fate. You see I have only been in love with your daughter since 8:33 this morning—when I watched her helping you on the train. Now my idea is for you to cast an approving eye over me and—well the rest will be my work."

"I say, young fellow, is this some modern way of courting that I haven't heard about?"

"No, it's a way all my own," confessed David, "and to proceed; my name's David Wendell, thirty-one, quite decent, and have a splendid position in the advertising business."

The father grinned unexpectedly. "Then your future wife's name is Ellen and her father's is John Goodman. Shake."

The two men shook hands solemnly, then laughed.

"And to proceed," continued Goodman, "there is not a finer girl in the world. She is giving up the chance of a fine position simply because she won't let me come to the train by myself. I will be O. K. in another week or two but that will be too late

"SOME WILD NOTIONS I HAVE KNOWN"

By the REV. ROY L. SMITH, D. D.
Pastor Simpson M. E. Church, Minneapolis

"WIT AND WISDOM ARE RARELY SEEN TOGETHER"

But there is no real wit without great wisdom. The greatest wits of the world have been among our wisest men.

Cervantes, the greatest Spaniard of them all, lived in a day of cheap sentimentality and mock chivalry. The impossible adventures and ridiculous honor of the literary heroes of the day were pierced by the paper-like wit of Cervantes in "Don Quixote" with the result that the whole Spanish literature was reformed. No statesman with his erudition and learning could have accomplished what Cervantes, the wit, accomplished.

No American humorist stands higher than Mark Twain, but none can read his whimsical comments without discovering a deep note of serious wisdom running through every sentence. In "Innocents Abroad" he pilloried sham after sham with incisive wit and unassailable wisdom.

One of the most popular humorists among contemporary writers is "Kin" Hubbard, the creator of Abe Martin. His whimsical and sarcastic comments are freighted with great cargoes of common sense. He wins you with his wit, but you remember him for his wisdom.

Emerson, with his classical style and elegant diction, did not say wiser things than Josh Billings with his ridiculous spelling and homely epigrams. Shakespeare, in his tragedy "Othello," displayed no more wisdom in seriousness than in "The Taming of a Shrew" with his wit.

for Ellen to secure this work. She says I've been a mother and father to her all her life and now she's going to be a mother to me—won't hear of anything else. The train she would have to take is a full hour earlier than mine so she couldn't see me safely aboard."

"The very thing for a start," said David enthusiastically. "I will stop by every morning and call for you—that is if Ellen approves of me as escort and she can take up her work if she wants to."

"By Jove, that would give her a chance. I know Ellen's frightfully keen on this position and it really is a flattering offer she has. I feel she wouldn't mind trusting me to you these mornings."

"There's only one thing I'm going to ask," said David, "and that is that this is a secret, for the time being, between you and me—Ellen mustn't suspect it's a plot but of course, Mr. Goodman, I won't mind in the least if you drop a kind word from time to time about me—just to plant a seed in her heart."

"That won't be so difficult, either. Dave, my boy—you're the kind of young fellow a father often thinks about when it comes to his pet daughter's choice."

And, of course, daughter's choice agreed with her father's.

BACON'S PLACE IN REALM OF THOUGHT

Scholar's Standing Soon to Be Determined.

Among the scholars produced by the Thirteenth century in Europe, Roger Bacon occupies a high rank. During his lifetime, it is true, his achievement was somewhat obscured. But in the century immediately following, the first rays of the Renaissance began to break upon European thought. The Dark ages were coming to an end.

HEDDA HOYT TELLS ABOUT SPRING STYLES

By HEDDA HOYT
New York, March 16.—(UP)—In looking over Spring styles don't overlook the minor details which tend to mark the new gown from the old.

Neck lines, for instance, are made without collars this season. Even the smarter sports models are made with V-shaped or square neck lines without collar attachments.

Belts of all widths, are found on most of the newer frocks, suits and coats. On sports frocks, belts are extremely narrow while on dressy afternoon models they are of wide draped type.

Dresses for sports occasions are utilizing monograms in various new manners this year. Oval cut-out monograms are perhaps the smartest type at present and they may be placed on the upper part of the left sleeve, on the scarf, the tie ends or on the blouse pocket.

Skull caps, which have previously been seen only in felt or silk, are shown in recent millinery displays in soft straws. These little caps which outline the arch of the eyebrows and extend in tab-eject over the ears are especially becoming to young faces. Youth this season, insists upon small untrimmed hats while matrons prefer more elaborate trimmed models.

Bolero treatments still continue to be popular. While the bolero is best suited to dresses, it is also used on suits and coats. As you know, the bolero may be suggested at the rear of the gown only instead of all the way about.

Shoulder corsages of self-material with frayed edges are still being used on afternoon and evening gowns. Miss Alice Brady appearing in her latest vehicle—"Lady Alone"—wears a gown typical of the season's mode. It is made of rose-hued chiffon with collarless rounded neck line, huge shoulder corsage of matching rose chiffon, rear bolero, draped sash and front skirt fullness.

As to newer colors for afternoon or sportswear, it is thought that yellow and warm yellowish greens will be quite as popular in America as they are in European resorts at present.

search and philosophy that he ran counter to established tradition most conspicuously. In his books, written in Latin, he sought to explore the whole field of knowledge as it existed in his day. At every turn he found shortcomings, due to the methods employed until then in the searching out of truth. In his Opus Majus he gave the results of his wide ranging, together with the remedies that he proposed as a means of putting knowledge on a sounder basis.

In his crude way, Roger Bacon thus stands out as a precursor of the Newtons and Darwins, of the Auguste Comtes and Herbert Spencers.

It should be interesting to see at first hand how close or remote the relationship is. This will be less difficult to English-speaking people now that the Opus Majus has, for the first time, been done into English by Dr. Robert Belle Burke of the University of Pennsylvania.—Detroit Free Press.

The Acid Test

Unless the study of a language modern or ancient has provided discipline for the mind, taught the need of accuracy and clarity, given a sense of order and structure, and finally introduced fresh knowledge and new ideas, the teaching of that language has contributed nothing to a child's education.—London Daily Telegraph.

"SOME WILD NOTIONS I HAVE KNOWN"

By the REV. ROY L. SMITH, D. D.
Pastor Simpson M. E. Church, Minneapolis

"WIT AND WISDOM ARE RARELY SEEN TOGETHER"

But there is no real wit without great wisdom. The greatest wits of the world have been among our wisest men.

Cervantes, the greatest Spaniard of them all, lived in a day of cheap sentimentality and mock chivalry. The impossible adventures and ridiculous honor of the literary heroes of the day were pierced by the paper-like wit of Cervantes in "Don Quixote" with the result that the whole Spanish literature was reformed. No statesman with his erudition and learning could have accomplished what Cervantes, the wit, accomplished.

No American humorist stands higher than Mark Twain, but none can read his whimsical comments without discovering a deep note of serious wisdom running through every sentence. In "Innocents Abroad" he pilloried sham after sham with incisive wit and unassailable wisdom.

One of the most popular humorists among contemporary writers is "Kin" Hubbard, the creator of Abe Martin. His whimsical and sarcastic comments are freighted with great cargoes of common sense. He wins you with his wit, but you remember him for his wisdom.

Emerson, with his classical style and elegant diction, did not say wiser things than Josh Billings with his ridiculous spelling and homely epigrams. Shakespeare, in his tragedy "Othello," displayed no more wisdom in seriousness than in "The Taming of a Shrew" with his wit.

for Ellen to secure this work. She says I've been a mother and father to her all her life and now she's going to be a mother to me—won't hear of anything else. The train she would have to take is a full hour earlier than mine so she couldn't see me safely aboard."

"The very thing for a start," said David enthusiastically. "I will stop by every morning and call for you—that is if Ellen approves of me as an escort and she can take up her work if she wants to."

"By Jove, that would give her a chance. I know Ellen's frightfully keen on this position and it really is a flattering offer she has. I feel she wouldn't mind trusting me to you these mornings."

"There's only one thing I'm going to ask," said David, "and that is that this is a secret, for the time being, between you and me—Ellen mustn't suspect it's a plot but of course, Mr. Goodman, I won't mind in the least if you drop a kind word from time to time about me—just to plant a seed in her heart."

"That won't be so difficult, either. Dave, my boy—you're the kind of young fellow a father often thinks about when it comes to his pet daughter's choice."

And, of course, daughter's choice agreed with her father's.

BACON'S PLACE IN REALM OF THOUGHT

Scholar's Standing Soon to Be Determined.

Among the scholars produced by the Thirteenth century in Europe, Roger Bacon occupies a high rank. During his lifetime, it is true, his achievement was somewhat obscured. But in the century immediately following, the first rays of the Renaissance began to break upon European thought. The Dark ages were coming to an end.

HEDDA HOYT TELLS ABOUT SPRING STYLES

By HEDDA HOYT
New York, March 16.—(UP)—In looking over Spring styles don't overlook the minor details which tend to mark the new gown from the old.

Neck lines, for instance, are made without collars this season. Even the smarter sports models are made with V-shaped or square neck lines without collar attachments.

Belts of all widths, are found on most of the newer frocks, suits and coats. On sports frocks, belts are extremely narrow while on dressy afternoon models they are of wide draped type.

Dresses for sports occasions are utilizing monograms in various new manners this year. Oval cut-out monograms are perhaps the smartest type at present and they may be placed on the upper part of the left sleeve, on the scarf, the tie ends or on the blouse pocket.

Skull caps, which have previously been seen only in felt or silk, are shown in recent millinery displays in soft straws. These little caps which outline the arch of the eyebrows and extend in tab-eenect over the ears are especially becoming to young faces. Youth this season, insists upon small untrimmed hats while matrons prefer more elaborate trimmed models.

Bolero treatments still continue to be popular. While the bolero is best suited to dresses, it is also used on suits and coats. As you know, the bolero may be suggested at the rear of the gown only instead of all the way about.

Shoulder corsages of self-material with frayed edges are still being used on afternoon and evening gowns. Miss Alice Brady appearing in her latest vehicle—"Lady Alone"—wears a gown typical of the season's mode. It is made of rose-hued chiffon with collarless rounded neck line, huge shoulder corsage of matching rose chiffon, rear bolero, draped sash and front skirt fullness.

As to newer colors for afternoon or sportswear, it is thought that yellow and warm yellowish greens will be quite as popular in America as they are in European resorts at present.

search and philosophy that he ran counter to established tradition most conspicuously. In his books, written in Latin, he sought to explore the whole field of knowledge as it existed in his day. At every turn he found shortcomings, due to the methods employed until then in the searching out of truth. In his Opus Majus we have the results of his wide ranging, together with the remedies that he proposed as a means of putting knowledge on a sounder basis.

In his crude way, Roger Bacon thus stands out as a precursor of the Newtons and Darwins, of the Auguste Comtes and Herbert Spencers.

It should be interesting to see at first hand how close or remote the relationship is. This will be less difficult to English-reading people now that the Opus Majus has, for the first time, been done into English by Dr. Robert Belle Burke of the University of Pennsylvania.—Detroit Free Press.

BREEZY POINT IN THE LISTS

BREEZY POINT LODGE near Brainerd and indirectly the Brainerd Lake Region have entered the lists of those bidding President and Mrs. Coolidge to visit here for their summer vacation.

Captain Fawcett's invitation has been extended through the congressman of the sixth district, Hon. Harold Knutson. Breezy Point is admirably equipped to provide for the entertainment of the chief executive of the United States. The home of Captain and Mrs. Fawcett, a beautiful structure across the way from the main lodge has recently been completed and its furnishings and conveniences equal that of the most modern home of any city.

In addition to the main section of Breezy Point with its many cottages, there is a quiet, beautifully wooded section of some forty acres with many buildings to the south of the estate, where a large entourage may be housed.

There is every kind of amusement and recreation to make the stay of President and Mrs. Coolidge a pleasant and beneficial one. Minnesota's lake ozone, purest in the world, will surely benefit the president. There is boating and swimming, tennis and golf, the finest horses to canter about, and every other kind of recreation.

And fishing! The Izaak Walton League of Brainerd, the local Game and Fish club, the Brainerd Chamber of Commerce will be glad to assist in locating fishing ground for the President. Besides far flung Big Pelican lake at Breezy Point, there are 700 lakes within easy motoring distance of Brainerd to offer their lure of the finny tribe.

Captain Fawcett's resort with its own copper line circuit and switchboard and direct communication through Brainerd with the largest cities assures the President and the corps of correspondents of some 50 newspapers accompanying him, ample opportunity to file official messages and press matter. If necessary, here at Brainerd, we are sure the Western Union would add operators to handle press stuff. In addition, if necessary, Breezy Point can be made a special postoffice.

The whole county of Crow Wing, every town, village, city, community in its confines will gladly assist Captain and Mrs. Fawcett in showing every possible courtesy to President and Mrs. Coolidge.

The first thing on the program would be to make it possible for the President to land a real pike, weight something like 20 pounds and let him gain that wonderful thrill of landing a real fish.

LITERATURE FOR THE TOURISTS

To the Chamber of Commerce this year has been delegated the "glad-handing" task so ably carried out by the Lions last year. Of some 30 Lions, says Secretary I. C. Strout, each man served three times on the roll.

This meant giving up from two to five hours of his time near the corner of South Sixth and Laurel streets and other intersections, distributing the maps issued by the Chamber of Commerce and other literature, giving all possible information regarding our lake country, road data, fish and fishing, etc., etc., and not forgetting to extend a cordial greeting to the tourist and his family for coming here or even for passing through our country. So well did the Lions paint the beauties and recreation opportunities of this section last year that many tourists changed their whole plans and stayed right in the Brainerd Lake Area.

Then there is also information to be given out regarding our Tourist Park, one of the finest in the United States and with wonderful accommodations. Only a moderate charge is made at the Tourist Park for the many conveniences afforded.

The "glad-handing" job has grown so large that this year it has been taken over by the Chamber of Commerce which will apportion the work to be done among its membership and thus give it a city-wide appeal. True, the rolls of the Chamber, as it should be, include almost the entire Rotary and Lions clubs membership. It means from 10 to 12 o'clock at the job, and from 2 to 5 p. m. Every man called on must act and not shirk his duty. The Lions started early in June. This year, however, promises an early spring, in fact spring is at hand and the kids are playing marbles and baseball will soon call its devotees and the ice will soon be gone from the lakes.

Brainerd is showing a whole-hearted interest in the tourist. Greeting him cordially, giving him freely all information of our section, makes him a friend, and like other lines of business, a customer once made comes back.

The Brainerd Dispatch will shortly publish the roll of volunteers desired in "glad-handing." If you can't serve, you must put a substitute in your place.

STATE HEAD TAX

A HEAD tax of $2 per annum is favored by many people in our state. As matters stand now, with the $100 exemption accorded on personal property, many people do not pay any tax.

According to Associated Press report every normal person in Minnesota between 21 and 50 years old would be taxed $2 a year under the terms of a bill introduced in the house.

The census of 1920 showed that Minnesota had 1,004,087 normal persons between the ages of 21 and 50. A $2 head tax would raise $2,008,174 in the state. The "head tax bill" was introduced by Representatives August Smith of Litchfield and M. J. Moone of London.

Under the terms of the bill the assessor would obtain the names of every physically and mentally normal person in the state. The funds of the tax would go to the general revenue fund of the town, city, village or borough in which the tax would be received.

ABOUT THE STATE TREASURER'S AUDIT

POSSIBLY a thorough audit of the state treasurer's office is needed, says the Princeton Union, but the whole affair viewed from the distance at which most of us stand looks like a smoke screen.

"Someone apparently is attempting to embarrass the state administration. If the demand for the inquiry does come from such a source, history would only be repeating itself. More than once in the history of Minnesota has a state office been thoroughly overhauled and investigated merely for political effect.

"It gives the opposition newspapers a chance to splash some big headlines across their pages and that is generally all it amounts to."

Captain Samuel R. Adair is no longer in command of Company F, of the Third regiment of Brainerd and at a meeting of the members of the company to be held this evening his successor will be elected.

Captain Adair sent in his resignation sometime ago but the same was not acted upon until a few days ago by Col. C. A. Van Duzen and it is understood that it was with great reluctance that he did finally decide to take this action. Captain Adair has been one of the best officers in the regiment and no one realized this more than the colonel of the regiment. Great pressure was brought to bear by the colonel to have Captain Adair reconsider the matter but when the latter's motives were explained the colonel decided to accept the resignation.

First Lieutenant William Nelson is the next ranking officer in the company and in all probability he will be elected at the meeting tonight to succeed Captain Adair.

SYNOPSIS

Bob Ward, college student, works as a dancing partner for rich women in a New Jersey roadhouse. Bob thinks it isn't a fit way to make a living; but beggars can't be choosers! At the inn he meets the prettiest, sweetest girl he has ever laid eyes on—Sally, the cigarette girl. Reciprocating his interest, she warns him against the mysterious and beautiful Mrs. Hammond, habitué of the inn, who finds her "thrill" in "hunting" Bob for her love's apartment. But Bob takes Sally home.

CHAPTER X.—Continued.

Meantime, Bob and Sally were zooming through the upper Broadway tube. Love's first conversations are of the kind to be whispered—not yelled above the roar of the subway. So the two sat silent in happy reflections over the miracle.

Getting out at the 103rd Street Station, they walked west two blocks and reached a modest, old-time four-story brownstone.

Sally had told him that she was fatherless; that she lived with her two little brothers and her mother. Bob, appraising the house with interest as the dwelling place of this fluffy yet sensible bit of girlish loveliness that had come into his life so suddenly and sweetly, could almost place the rest of the story together. The house left to them by the father; Mrs. Smith maintaining its respectable front partly through Sally's earnings, and largely no doubt through taking in boarders to fill up the spare rooms of the upper stories. Of course she took boarders. It was just that sort of a house—for a widowed mother.

Bob, snapping out of his covert

much of a grind and too much of a pauper. The kind of girls who come to the proms fall for a fellow like me around the football season because they can boast about knowing a football player. But the rest of the year they haven't much use for a bone. Especially a bone who hasn't a bone to his name. That's a good line, eh? I'll have to tell it to the boys! And so far as saying nice things to those girls is concerned, well I've never been interested enough in any one of them to say—nice things about them!"

Bob laughed merrily; Sally giggled. Another awkward silence was wrapping around them, when Bob suddenly asked:

"Hasn't any other fellow ever said—nice things to you?"

Sally colored and fidgeted. "Oh," added Bob quickly, "I mean aside from those fools in the Palisado roadhouse. I mean—nice fellows. Fellow you've met socially. You know, at church and parties and so on."

Still Sally hesitated, and before she could give voice to whatever it was she was framing with such difficulty, the glass door was abruptly opened and a strident voice exclaimed:

"Sally, are you going to stand out there all evening?"

The color traced in Sally's cheeks by her hesitancy about answering Bob's question, deepened now to a red glow of embarrassment, as she said, patiently,

"I haven't been here but a minute, Mother! Mother, I want you to meet Mr. Bob Ward; Bob, this is my mother. Bob is the great football player. Mother, the boys used to talk about last fall. I mean my kid brothers"—she explained to Bob.

It was evident that she was trying to make conversation in order to hide her pained confusion over the aggressive and unpleasant appearance and attitude of her mother. She went on—"Mr. Ward is a student at New York University, and he's going to work over at the inn for a few weeks!" Bob acknowledged the presentation by a courtly bow to the rather thin, rather old, and altogether shrewish woman who stood within the vestibule, holding the outer door ajar only far enough to permit of unimpeded speech; and looking well prepared to vanish as belligerently as she had come, at any moment.

Bob, recovering furtively from the shock of the unfriendly greeting, noted with great satisfaction that Sally in no sense or slightest feature or manner resembled her mother. That was a good thing; else he felt that, present indications and appearances to the contrary, he would have lost his interest in the combed-honey Princess.

Mrs. Smith, thought Bob whimsically, in the quick and comprehensive and shrewd way in which his engineer's brain sized up situations, was the sort of woman who always survived her husband. He had no doubt that Sally resembled the departed bread-winner. For Sally's manner toward her mother showed a trace of fear, and a world of mellow patience, remarkable in one so young. Bob was also sure that subsequent events would prove that the boys—the "kid brothers" Sally had referred to—would prove to be chips off the maternal block. It was ever thus.

All those thoughts raced through Bob's head in less time that it took him to make his bow and smile.

Mrs. Smith acknowledged the introduction with a curt jerk of her head. She had sized him up through the glass door curtains, ere she had come out, and had made the snappy and unerring judgment of an ambitious mother as to his financial prospects.

A college student! Paugh! Working his way through, and starving! Couldn't be satisfied with just a grammar school course, and a good job with a chance to learn a trade. No; a poor boy, putting on airs. Four more years to starve after he got out of college, before he'd be able to support a wife—if then. Certainly, not a man for the mother of pretty little Sally Smith to be interested in.

"Pleased to meet you!" Then, to Sally, who looked as though she would like to sink through the entrance steps, never to come up;

"Come, come—you'd better hurry in and get your supper, add dress up a bit."

"Why, Mother? I'm not going out tonight."

"Never mind why. There's something here for you."

"Something for me?"

"Yes, there's a box of the loveliest flowers."

"Flowers? For me? From whom?"

Mrs. Smith glared significantly at Bob as she told Sally sharply, "Mr. Tom Mannon sent them. And he's coming up tonight to call on you."

(To be continued.)

"You say the nicest things, Bob!"

appraisal, was fussed to find Sally contemplating him.

"Like it?" she smiled.

"Oh, I didn't mean to be staring so rudely. But I like it helps because it's old-fashioned. Because it just sort of fits—you!"

"You say the nicest things, Bob! Do you say them to every girl you meet at the school? And you must meet a lot of pretty girls, Bob, at the school proms and affairs like that—a famous football player like you."

"I am more apt to meet the usual girl," Bob laughed, "because of my football, than because I'm an honor student in engineering!"

"How wonderful it is to be a man and study such things!" breathed little Sally Smith, catching her first scents of worldling romance.

They fell into an awkward silence now. The incredible lapses that befog the tongue when the brain lies dreaming. Bob was rendered bashfully quiet by the spontaneity of her interest in his personal career; little Sally Smith was just a mite awed in the mingled presence of masculine brains and brawn. Sally looked fearfully at Bob's big hands and quivered strangely in her soft little flanks as she thought how his fingers could encircle her waist, as they might a football, and crush her.

But little Sally Smith, by the same inward instinct, knew also that there was more potency to guide and disarm in her archness than in all his muscle. She smiled up at her cave man:

"But you didn't answer my question, Bob. Do you meet a lot of pretty girls, and do you say those nice, flattering things to all of them?"

They had gone up the high single flight of steps, now, and were standing at the iron-grilled glass outer door of the vestibule.

"No, I haven't met many," said Bob truthfully; "I've been too

There is every kind of amusement and recreation to make the stay of President and Mrs. Coolidge a pleasant and beneficial one. Minnesota's lake ozone, purest in the world, will surely benefit the president. There is boating and swimming, tennis and golf, the finest horses to canter about, and every other kind of recreation.

And fishing! The Izaak Walton League of Brainerd, the local Game and Fish club, the Brainerd Chamber of Commerce will be glad to assist in locating fishing ground for the President. Besides far flung Big Pelican lake at Breezy Point, there are 700 lakes within easy motoring distance of Brainerd to offer their lure of the finny tribe.

Captain Fawcett's resort with its own copper line circuit and switchboard and direct communication through Brainerd with the largest cities assures the President and the corps of correspondents of some 50 newspapers accompanying him, ample opportunity to file official messages and press matter. If necessary, here at Brainerd, we are sure the Western Union would add operators to handle press stuff. In addition, if necessary, Breezy Point can be made a special postoffice.

The whole county of Crow Wing, every town, village, city, community in its confines will gladly assist Captain and Mrs. Fawcett in showing every possible courtesy to President and Mrs. Coolidge.

The first thing on the program would be to make it possible for the President to land a real pike, weight something like 20 pounds and let him gain that wonderful thrill of landing a real fish.

LITERATURE FOR THE TOURISTS

To the Chamber of Commerce this year has been delegated the "glad-handing" task so ably carried out by the Lions last year. Of some 30 Lions, says Secretary I. C. Strout, each man served three times on the roll.

This meant giving up from two to five hours of his time near the corner of South Sixth and Laurel streets and other intersections, distributing the maps issued by the Chamber of Commerce and other literature, giving all possible information regarding our lake country, road data, fish and fishing, etc., etc., and not forgetting to extend a cordial greeting to the tourist and his family for coming here or even for passing through our country. So well did the Lions paint the beauties and recreation opportunities of this section last year that many tourists changed their whole plans and stayed right in the Brainerd Lake Area.

Then there is also information to be given out regarding our Tourist Park, one of the finest in the United States and with wonderful accommodations. Only a moderate charge is made at the Tourist Park for the many conveniences afforded.

The "glad-handing" job has grown so large that this year it has been taken over by the Chamber of Commerce which will apportion the work to be done among its membership and thus give it a city-wide appeal. True, the rolls of the Chamber, as it should be, include almost the entire Rotary and Lions clubs membership. It means from 10 to 12 o'clock at the job, and from 2 to 5 p. m. Every man called on must act and not shirk his duty. The Lions started early in June. This year, however, promises an early spring, in fact spring is at hand and the kids are playing marbles and baseball will soon call its devotees and the ice will soon be gone from the lakes.

Brainerd is showing a whole-hearted interest in the tourist. Greeting him cordially, giving him freely all information of our section, makes him a friend, and like other lines of business, a customer once made comes back.

The Brainerd Dispatch will shortly publish the roll of volunteers desired in "glad-handing." If you can't serve, you must put a substitute in your place.

STATE HEAD TAX

A HEAD tax of $2 per annum is favored by many people in our state. As matters stand now, with the $100 exemption accorded on personal property, many people do not pay any tax.

According to Associated Press report every normal person in Minnesota between 21 and 50 years old would be taxed $2 a year under the terms of a bill introduced in the house.

The census of 1920 showed that Minnesota had 1,004,087 normal persons between the ages of 21 and 50. A $2 head tax would raise $2,008,174 in the state. The "head tax bill" was introduced by Representatives August Smith of Litchfield and M. J. Moone of London.

Under the terms of the bill the assessor would obtain the names of every physically and mentally normal person in the state. The funds of the tax would go to the general revenue fund of the town, city, village or borough in which the tax would be received.

ABOUT THE STATE TREASURER'S AUDIT

POSSIBLY a thorough audit of the state treasurer's office is needed, says the Princeton Union, but the whole affair viewed from the distance at which most of us stand looks like a smoke screen.

"Someone apparently is attempting to embarrass the state administration. If the demand for the inquiry does come from such a source, history would only be repeating itself. More than once in the history of Minnesota has a state office been thoroughly overhauled and investigated merely for political effect.

"It gives the opposition newspapers a chance to splash some big headlines across their pages and that is generally all it amounts to."

SYNOPSIS

Bob Ward, college student, works as a dancing partner for rich women in a New Jersey roadhouse. Bob thinks it isn't a fit way to make a living; but beggars can't be choosers! At the Inn he meets the prettiest, sweetest girl he has ever laid eyes on—Sally, the cigarette girl. Reciprocitying his interest, she warns him against the mysterious and beautiful Mrs. Hammond, habitue of the Inn, who finds her "thrill" in "hunting" Bob for her toughest apartment. But Bob takes Sally home.

Meantime, Bob and Sally were zooming through the upper Broadway tube. Love's first conversations are of the kind to be whispered—not yelled above the roar of the subway. So the two sat silent in happy reflections over the miracle.

Getting out at the 103rd Street Station, they walked west two blocks and reached a modest, old-time four-story brownstone. Sally had told him that she was fatherless; that she lived with her two little brothers and her mother. Bob, appraising the house with interest as the dwelling place of this fluffy yet sensible bit of girlish loveliness that had come into his life so suddenly and sweetly, could almost piece the rest of the story together. The house left to them by the father, Mrs. Smith maintaining its respectable front partly through Sally's earnings, and largely no doubt through taking in boarders to fill up the spare rooms of the upper stories. Of course she took boarders. It was just that sort of a house—for a widowed mother.

Bob, snapping out of his covert

appraisal, was fussed to find Sally contemplating him.

"Like it?" she smiled.

"Oh, I didn't mean to be staring so rudely. But I like it heaps because it's old-fashioned. Because it just sort of fits—you!"

"You say the nicest things, Bob! Do you say them to every girl you meet at the school? And you must meet a lot of pretty girls, Bob, at the school proms and affairs like that—a famous football player like you."

"I am more apt to meet the usual girl," Bob laughed, "because of my football, than because I'm an honor student in engineering!"

"How wonderful it is to be a man and study such things!" breathed little Sally Smith, catching her first scents of worldling romance.

They fell into an awkward silence now. The incredible lapse that befog the tongue when the brain lies dreaming. Bob was rendered bashfully quiet by the spontaneity of her interest in his personal career; little Sally Smith was just a mite awed in the mingled presence of masculine brains and brawn. Sally looked fearfully at Bob's big hands and quivered strangely in her soft little flanks as she thought how his fingers could encircle her waist, as they might a football, and crush her.

But little Sally Smith, by the same inward instinct, knew also that there was more potency to guide and disarm in her archness than in all his muscle. She smiled up at her cave man:

"But you didn't answer my question, Bob. Do you meet a lot of pretty girls, and do you say those nice, flattering things to all of them?"

They had gone up the high single flight of steps, now, and were standing at the iron-grilled glass outer door of the vestibule.

"No, I haven't met many," said Bob truthfully. "I've been too

Jersey cows which were presented to him by a brother-in-law who is in the stock business there.

A little daughter was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whitford. Some forty head of young cattle arrived this morning for R. R. Wise's farm.

Captain Samuel R. Adair is no longer in command of Company F, of the Third regiment of Brainerd, and at a meeting of the members of the company to be held this evening his successor will be elected.

Captain Adair sent in his resignation sometime ago but the same was not acted upon until a few days ago by Col. C. A. Van Duzen and it is understood that it was with great reluctance that he did finally decide to take this action. Captain Adair has been one of the best officers in the regiment and no one realized this more than the colonel of the regiment. Great pressure was brought to bear by the colonel to have Captain Adair reconsider the matter but when the latter's motives were explained the colonel decided to accept the resignation.

First Lieutenant William Nelson is the next ranking officer in the company and in all probability he will be elected at the meeting tonight to succeed Captain Adair.

SEASON FOR PICKING PENNANT WINNERS

NEARLY EVERY TEAM IN MAJORS GIVEN CHANCE

OPINIONS, EXPERT AND OTHERWISE, DIVIDED ON MOST CLUBS

PHILADELPHIA PHILLIES AND BOSTON RED SOX IN THE CELLAR

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, March 16.—(UP)—In this open season for picking pennant winners, nearly every team in the major leagues is being given some kind of chance.

Opinion, expert and otherwise, is divided on all clubs except the Philadelphia Phillies and the Boston Red Sox. They are unanimous choice for last place.

Picking pennant winners when the training season is just half finished is a hazard for reputations and pocketbooks.

With few exceptions, the predictions of the experts were miles off the target in 1926, when the New York Giants were a majority choice in the National League and those who didn't cast a vote for McGraw's club, strung along with Pittsburgh. The Giants slumped into the second division and the Pirates couldn't keep up with the St. Louis Cardinals or the Cincinnati Reds.

The most terrific strain on expert opinion exploded in the American League when the New York Yankees dashed away in the first week of the race and pulled across the finish line badly winded but ahead.

Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, who never has been famed as an orator or a disciple of optimism, isn't claiming another pennant. "The Athletics and the Senators are very good ball clubs and I don't know what my club will do this year," he said.

There are others, however, picking the pennant for Huggins, best known of whom are Babe Ruth and Jack Hendricks, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, who in the same voice puts in a boost for himself. "The Yankees will win the American League pennant and we've got only Pittsburgh to beat to win in the National League," he said.

Hendricks expressed the opinion that the Giants weren't to be figured at all but many critics think the Giants can't miss.

Rogers Hornsby, who managed the Cards into a world's championship last year and who is now playing second base for the Giants, picks his new club as a cinch.

"The Cards are a one-year club," he said.

Frank Frisch, who changed positions and clubs with Hornsby, is just as positive that the Cardinals will be in another world series.

George Kelly, who was traded by the Giants to the Reds, figures the Cincinnati club is a sure thing and quoted the opinion of Heinie Groh to the same effect.

Walter Johnson, veteran Washington pitcher, thinks the Senators will beat out the Athletics for the pennant and that Detroit will finish ahead of the Yankees.

Ty Cobb said when he signed with Connie Mack that he did so because he wanted to join a club that was going to be in the world series.

SALARIES IN BASEBALL AND OTHER SPORTS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)
New York, March 16.—In defending themselves against criticism that they underpay their athletes, owners of major league baseball clubs claim that the average rate of pay is higher for a baseball player than that of many other professions.

Considering the time actually spent in their work, baseball players make much more money than they could in an average white collar job or in the overalls of a mechanic but their pay does not compare to that of boxers, wrestlers and even bike riders.

It is well known to the public what the heavyweight boxing championship means to the holder and what money is commanded by champions and prominent boxers in the lower classes.

In less than three years Paul Berlenbach cleared a fortune of close to $200,000 and retired. Dempsey made more than a million dollars and his successor, Gene Tunney, will have as much if he succeeds in holding the title for any considerable length of time.

Joe Stecher, the heavyweight wrestling champion, made more than $100,000 last year, according to the estimate of Jack Curley, and contenders for the title earned almost as much in proportion.

Some of the prominent bike riders are paid as much as $10,000 for competing in the six day bike races promoted by Tex Rickard and John Chapman and they get even more in prize money.

Promoters of boxing, wrestling and bike racing can afford to pay more money than baseball club owners because their receipts are much larger and their expenses trifling in comparison.

Tex Rickard, of course, has a tremendous overhead but he does not depend upon any one or two sports to pay the running cost of his Garden. He operates the year around and his prices will average at least five times more per attraction than is paid for baseball games.

Practically all of the other promoters rent places for their shows and they have no operating or upkeep expenses.

Baseball club owners have expensive parks to support and with few exceptions they are a source of revenue for only six months in the year. The New York, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh parks are used for boxing but the other clubs do not find such a big field for this side product.

Baseball magnates have to pay salaries regularly, they have to pay traveling and hotel expenses and bear the burden of other incidentals which accumulate into five figures.

Then the club owner has to gamble on his players. One accident to a star player not only may force the payment of a big salary without any returns in service but it might wreck the chances of the whole club for big money.

This was the recent experience of the New York Giants when Pep Young had to retire because of illness. Young was a great ball player and he was counted upon to be a part of a potentially great outfield but when he was lost the Giants had to change their entire plans and if they don't win the National league pennant it may be because of the change that was made necessary in the outfield and on first base.

There is also no way of telling when a baseball player is going to blow up and for this reason the magnates are reluctant to sign players on contracts for more than one year.

Dazzy Vance, rated in 1925 as one of the greatest pitchers in baseball, was one of the highest salaried pitchers in the league but he blew up last season and was practically of no use to the Brooklyn Robins. This is just the example to illustrate the point. It resulted in not only an actual salary loss but a very decided falling off in the attendance and attendance keeps the clubs going.

The magnates don't pay any more than they have to—but what employer does? There is no doubt that some of the club owners do not, or have not in the past, given players what their services were worth.

SENIOR ALL STARS DEFEAT UNDERCLASS BY SCORE OF 25-13

SENIOR GIRLS WIN FROM UNDERCLASS TEAM BY 22-11 SCORE

PROMISING TALENT DISPLAYED FOR NEXT YEAR'S B. H. S. CAGE TEAM

The Seniors proved superior to the underclass teams at the cage games last evening at the high school gymnasium, the Senior All Stars defeating the Underclass Men by the score of 25 to 13, and the Senior Girls outplaying the Underclass Girls by the count of 22 to 11.

The outstanding feature of the boys' game was the presentation of next year's array of basketball talent to uphold the honor of the Blue and White in the eleven district conference. The Underclass Men made a very favorable showing and in spite of the difference of the score which was brought about in the second half, the team showed real basketball class, speed and unity which should tend to bring them victories next season. With the addition of weight put on this summer, the team will step into play next season to compete on a par with the best in the district. Wise and Guin, of course, showed up superior to their classmates, and in the Hautala brothers, Barnes and Boyd, the team, with coaching, should progress rapidly.

The Underclass Men stayed remarkably in the running in the first half, displaying speed and shooting equal to that of the Seniors. Endurance, however, and weight proved victorious for the Seniors in the second half. Fitzharris, Lowe and DeRoche coming through with some fine scoring.

The teams lined up as follows:
Senior All Stars—Orth, center; Fitzharris, Lawrenz, forwards; DeRoche and Lowe, guards; Putz and Anderson, subs.

Underclass Men—Guin, center;

Wise, A. Hautala, forwards; W. Hautala, Barnes, guards; Boyd, sub.

Referee—Whitlock.
Beggs, star of the Senior Girls team, was the outstanding scorer of the girls' game. The Underclass Girls were handicapped slightly in size and lacked efficient scoring ability. Weak shooting, however, was displayed by both teams.

The line-ups:
Senior Girls—Beggs, center; Hollingsworth, Gallagher, forwards; Storm, Liners, Alzant, guards.
Underclass Girls—Early, center; Fogelstrom, Molstad, forwards; and Koepple, Peters, guards.
Referee—Miss Gipson.

BUD TAYLOR BESTS SARMIENTO

HAS LITTLE DIFFICULTY DEFEATING HIM IN 10 ROUNDS LAST NIGHT

Terre Haute, Ind., March 16.—(UP)—Bud Taylor, claimant to the world's bantamweight championship, had little difficulty in defeating Pete Sarmiento in 10 rounds last night.

Taylor was the aggressor from the start and with a sharp left hand scored repeatedly. Sarmiento was wild towards the close of the fight as Taylor danced about him shooting in vicious left and right jabs.

The rugged Taylor was given eight of the ten rounds.

Nydahl Elected Captain
Minneapolis — Melvin Nydahl, guard, has been elected captain of the 1928 University of Minnesota basketball team.

St. Louis, Mo.—Joe Stecher, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, successfully defended his title here last night against Paul Jones, Los Angeles grappler. Stecher won the first and third falls.

FLYING QUEENS OUT TO DEFEAT ASCENSION GIRLS

CAGE BATTLE FOR CHAMPIONSHIP OF NORTHWEST TO BE PLAYED SATURDAY NIGHT

FLYING QUEENS WILL START WITH FASTEST LINEUP; FAST GAME EXPECTED

The Ascension girls of Minneapolis who come here Saturday night to defend their title, that of champions of the northwest, will find in the Flying Queens a formidable girls quint who will not give in until the final whistle has blown. The game will be played at the Brainerd high school auditorium and should prove one of the most interesting basketball games of the season.

The Flying Queens will start the game with Turner and Beggs and Trask as forwards and Reuter, Nolan, and Smith on defense. Fogelstrom, Alzant, Hollingsworth, Shepherd, and Storm will see action in this fray also.

The manager of the Flying Queens feels rather confident in her team, and assures the fans if the local girls do not win, they will at least give the Minneapolis girls a stiff battle.

NONE OF LEADERS THREATENED IN THE A. B. C. TOURNAMENT

The team of F. Koley and H. Fackelman of Rochester, N. Y., went into ninth place in the two man event when they scored 1,196.

Leaders in the four classes:
Five man—Harrington-Hupps, Minneapolis—2,914.
Two man—G. Holmes, J. Vyzral, Chicago—1,294.
Individuals—B. Peterson, Sweden—701.

25 NATIONS IN 1927 DAVIS CUP TOURNEY

New York, March 16.—(UP)—With twenty-five nations listed as challengers, the entry list for the 1927 Davis Cup competition closed at midnight. Sweden was the last entry, the challenge arriving just before closing time. The draw will be made tomorrow in Washington in the presence of diplomatic representatives of all the competing nations.

'FATTY' ARBUCKLE SAYS PEOPLE WANT HIM ON SCREEN

Hollywood, Calif., March 16.—(UP)—"Public demand is bringing Roscoe 'Fatty' Arbuckle back to the silver screen on which he once was known as the ace of jesters.

"During the six years I have been in retirement I have received a constant stream of requests for my return to pictures," the comedian told the United Press today. "The public wants me back and on that point I made my decision to return."

Arbuckle's retirement from the screen came as the result of a scandal which linked his name with the death of Virginia Rappe, a motion picture actress, during a party in a San Francisco hotel. Arbuckle was charged with responsibility for her death. He was tried and acquitted but the incident caused so much adverse criticism he left the screen.

Arbuckle said he was influenced to return to motion pictures during a recent vaudeville tour when he submitted the question of return to his audiences.

"Out of 200,000 ballots distributed among the audiences," he said, "only 100 persons voted against my return."

Announcement of his decision has evoked little comment in the film colony. Since his retirement he has been directing pictures successfully under assumed names for various film companies and his ultimate return to acting has been expected.

"By trade I am a motion picture actor," Arbuckle continued. "Naturally I want to follow the grease paint. Producers and directors have offered me many chances during the past and they aided in bringing me back into the spotlight.
"I have never had any trouble with the Will Hays organization and I won't have any now. There is no ulterior motive in my going to Germany to produce the pictures. My partner and I simply decided the pictures could be made better and at less expense in Germany. The pictures will be released both in Europe and America."

Arbuckle is to receive $5,000 a week, and a 50 per cent share of the profits on his pictures under his new contract.

FEDERAL GRAND JURY INVESTIGATES BANK FAILURE

Cheyenne, Wyo., March 16.—(UP)—A special federal grand jury has begun an investigation of the failure of the First National bank of Cheyenne, it was learned today.

The collapse of the bank on July 9, 1924 was considered Wyoming's biggest bank failure and rocked financial circles in the state to such an extent that depositors demanded a government probe.

The bank had $5,000,000 in deposits and was considered one of the strongest financial institutions in state. U. S. Senator Frank Warren, was vice president of the bank.

LIGHTED CIGARET STARTS FIRE ENDING IN FATALITY

St. Paul, Minn., March 16.—(UP)—Frank Foley, 41, who was fatally burned in his hotel room here Monday, will be buried here today.

Foley who was born in St. Cloud, Minn., was the son of Thomas Foley railroad contractor. Following his graduation from Princeton the son entered building work here.

The fire which caused his death was started from a lighted cigarette which ignited the bed clothing when the former St. Cloud resident fell asleep.

SALARIES IN BASEBALL AND OTHER SPORTS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)
New York, March 16.—In defense of themselves against criticism that they underpay their athletes, owners of major league baseball clubs claim that the average rate of pay is higher for a baseball player than that of many other professions.

Considering the time actually spent in their work, baseball players make much more money than they could in an average white collar job or in the overalls of a mechanic but their pay does not compare to that of boxers, wrestlers and even bike riders.

It is well known to the public what the heavyweight boxing championship means to the holder and what money is commanded by champions and prominent boxers in the lower classes.

In less than three years Paul Berlenbach cleared a fortune of close to $200,000 and retired. Dempsey made more than a million dollars and his successor, Gene Tunney, will have as much if he succeeds in holding the title for any considerable length of time.

Joe Stecher, the heavyweight wrestling champion, made more than $100,000 last year, according to the estimate of Jack Curley, and contenders for the title earned almost as much in proportion.

Some of the prominent bike riders are paid as much as $10,000 for competing in the six day bike races promoted by Tex Rickard and John Chapman and they get even more in prize money.

Promoters of boxing, wrestling and bike racing can afford to pay more money than baseball club owners because their receipts are much larger and their expenses trifling in comparison.

Tex Rickard, of course, has a tremendous overhead but he does not depend upon any one or two sports to pay the running cost of his Garden. He operates the year around and his prices will average at least five times more per attraction than is paid for baseball games.

Practically all of the other promoters rent places for their shows and they have no operating or upkeep expenses.

Baseball club owners have expensive parks to support and with few exceptions they are a source of revenue for only six months in the year. The New York, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh parks are used for boxing but the other clubs do not find such a big field for this side product.

Baseball magnates have to pay salaries regularly, they have to pay traveling and hotel expenses and bear the burden of other incidentals which accumulate into five figures.

Then the club owner has to gamble on his players. One accident to a star player not only may force the payment of a big salary without any returns in service but it might wreck the chances of the whole club for big money.

This was the recent experience of the New York Giants when Pep Young had to retire because of illness. Young was a great ball player and he was counted upon to be a part of a potentially great outfield but when he was lost the Giants had to change their entire plans and if they don't win the National league pennant it may be because of the change that was made necessary in the outfield and on first base.

There is also no way of telling when a baseball player is going to blow up and for this reason the magnates are reluctant to sign players on contracts for more than one year.

Dazzy Vance, rated in 1925 as one of the greatest pitchers in baseball, was one of the highest salaried pitchers in the league but he blew up last season and was practically of no use to the Brooklyn Robins. This is just the example to illustrate the point. It resulted in not only an actual salary loss but a very decided falling off in the attendance and attendance keeps the clubs going.

The magnates don't pay any more than they have to—but what employer does? There is no doubt that some of the club owners do not, or have not in the past, given players what their services were worth.

SENIOR ALL STARS DEFEAT UNDERCLASS BY SCORE OF 25-13

SENIOR GIRLS WIN FROM UNDERCLASS TEAM BY 22-11 SCORE

PROMISING TALENT DISPLAYED FOR NEXT YEAR'S B. H. S. CAGE TEAM

The Seniors proved superior to the underclass teams at the cage games last evening at the high school gymnasium, the Senior All Stars defeating the Underclass Men by the score of 25 to 13, and the Senior Girls outplaying the Underclass Girls by the count of 22 to 11.

The outstanding feature of the boys' game was the presentation of next year's array of basketball talent to uphold the honor of the Blue and White in the eleventh district conference. The Underclass Men made a very favorable showing and in spite of the difference of the score which was brought about in the second half, the team showed real basketball class, speed and unity which should tend to bring them victories next season. With the addition of weight put on this summer, the team will step into play next season to compete on a par with the best in the district. Wise and Guin, of course, showed up superior to their classmates, and in the Hantala brothers, Barnes and Boyd, the team, with coaching, should progress rapidly.

The Underclass Men stayed remarkably in the running in the first half, displaying speed and shooting equal to that of the Seniors. Endurance, however, and weight proved victorious for the Seniors in the second half. Fitzharris, Lowe and DeRoche coming through with some fine scoring.

The teams lined up as follows:
Senior All Stars—Orth, center; Fitzharris, Lawrenz, forwards; DeRoche and Lowe, guards; Putz and Anderson, subs.
Underclass Men—Guin, center;

Wise, A. Hantala, forwards; W. Hantala, Barnes, guards; Boyd, sub.
Referee—Whitlock.

Beggs, star of the Senior Girls team, was the outstanding scorer of the girls' game. The Underclass Girls were handicapped slightly in size and lacked efficient scoring ability. Weak shooting, however, was displayed by both teams.

The line-ups:
Senior Girls—Beggs, center; Hollingsworth, Gallagher, forwards; Storm, Liners, Alzant, guards.
Underclass Girls—Early, center; Fogelstrom, Molstad, forwards; and Koepfle, Peters, guards.
Referee—Miss Gipsen.

The rugged Taylor was given eight of the ten rounds.

FLYING QUEENS OUT TO DEFEAT ASCENSION GIRLS

CAGE BATTLE FOR CHAMPIONSHIP OF NORTHWEST TO BE PLAYED SATURDAY NIGHT

FLYING QUEENS WILL START WITH FASTEST LINEUP; FAST GAME EXPECTED

The Ascension girls of Minneapolis who come here Saturday night to defend their title, that of champions of the northwest, will find in the Flying Queens a formidable girls' quint who will not give in until the final whistle has blown. The game will be played at the Brainerd high school auditorium and should prove one of the most interesting basketball games of the season.

The Flying Queens will start the game with Turner and Beggs and Trask as forwards and Reuter, Nolan, and Smith on defense. Fogelstrom, Alzant, Hollingsworth, Shepherd, and Storm will see action in this fray also.

The manager of the Flying Queens feels rather confident in her team, and assures the fans if the local girls do not win, they will at least give the Minneapolis girls a stiff battle.

'FATTY' ARBUCKLE SAYS PEOPLE WANT HIM ON SCREEN

Hollywood, Calif., March 16.—(UP)—"Public demand is bringing Roscoe 'Fatty' Arbuckle back to the silver screen on which he once was known as the ace of jesters.

"During the six years I have been in retirement I have received a constant stream of requests for my return to pictures," the comedian told the United Press today. "The public wants me back and on that point I made my decision to return."

Arbuckle's retirement from the screen came as the result of a scandal which linked his name with the death of Virginia Rappe, a motion picture actress, during a party in a San Francisco hotel. Arbuckle was charged with responsibility for her death. He was tried and acquitted but the incident caused so much adverse criticism he left the screen.

Arbuckle said he was influenced to return to motion pictures during a recent vaudeville tour when he submitted the question of return to his audiences.

"Out of 200,000 ballots distributed among the audiences," he said, "only 100 persons voted against my return."

Announcement of his decision has evoked little comment in the film colony. Since his retirement he has been directing pictures successfully under assumed names for various film companies and his ultimate return to acting has been expected.

"By trade I am a motion picture actor," Arbuckle continued. "Naturally I want to follow the grease paint. Producers and directors have offered me many chances during the past and they aided in bringing me back into the spotlight.

"I have never had any trouble with the Will Hays organization and I won't have any now. There is no ulterior motive in my going to Germany to produce the pictures. My partner and I simply decided the pictures could be made better and at less expense in Germany. The pictures will be released both in Europe and America."

Arbuckle is to receive $5,000 a week, and a 50 per cent share of the profits on his pictures under his new contract.

ALICE HOLST FOUND NOT GUILTY OF MURDER

LOVER

PRETTY WAITRESS FAINTS AS JURY MAKES ITS REPORT

Stanley, N. D., March 16.—(UP)—Alice Holst, 18-year-old Sanish waitress, today was found not guilty of murdering Willie Nafus, 22, her unwelcome lover.

The pretty little waitress fainted when the jury made its report after 16 hours of deliberation. She was revived long enough to hear Judge Moelling dismiss the case and then fainted a second time to be carried from the court room.

Attorneys for the girl had pleaded she was insane at the time of the shooting and Judge Moelling recommended that she be placed in an institution where she can have medical attention.

Miss Holst, therefore, was free of legal entanglements which have held her since December 13, when Nafus was called to the door of a Sanish pool-room to be shot down by the girl.

She explained to the authorities at the time of the shooting that her actions were prompted by revenge for an attack Nafus was said to have made on her three nights previous.

The waitress maintained throughout the trial that a lapse of memory made it impossible for her to recall the shooting. Alienists testified that she suffered from psychic epilepsy, which sometimes results in a loss of memory.

Alice's father and mother who had been at her side throughout the trial, were overjoyed when the verdict was read at 9:30 A. M.

RUMORS OF BREAK BETWEEN U. S. AND MEXICO

COUNTERED BY STATE DEPARTMENT
ANNOUNCEMENT OF HOPE OF PEACE

BELIEVED MANY OF THE DIS-PUTES CAN BE SETTLED BY NEGOTIATIONS

By LUDWELL DENNY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, March 16.—Rumors of an imminent break between the United States and Mexico were countered by a state department announcement today expressing hope that the disputes could be settled by negotiations.

Secretary Kellogg authorized a statement that there was no danger of war and that this government does not contemplate issuing an ultimatum.

This statement followed several weeks of state department silence on the Mexican situation and apparent tension on the part of officials here. Mexican Ambassador Telles returned hastily to Mexico City and the two governments exchanged "mystery" notes which have not been made public.

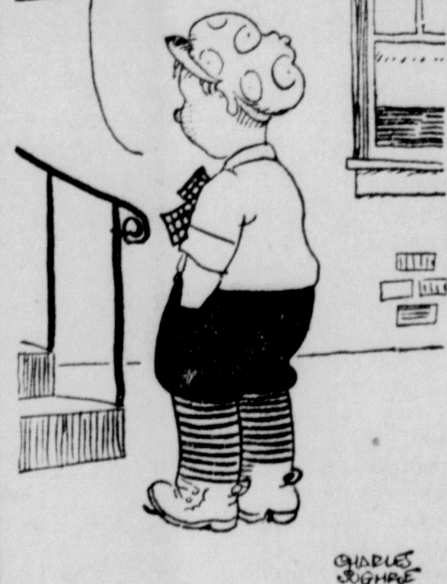

Kellogg did not explain today what new factors were responsible for the present optimism. But department officials here clearly reflected the hope of peaceful settlement, expressed by Telles on his departure from Mexico for Washington several days ago.

It is understood that alleged propaganda and espionage in both countries has tended to increase the tension. Whether such charges have been admitted by either government and subsequently removed could not be ascertained.

Has a Long Snout

The opossum is the only marsupial found in the United States. The long, hairless, prehensile tail, the naked ears, piglike snout, and the long, coarse hair, together with the widely spread toes, are the chief distinguishing marks, says Nature Magazine. These animals love the vicinity of water and are most numerous in swamps and bottom land bordering streams. The average length is about thirty inches.

PROGRESS OF THE BRAINERD BOYS' CONCERT BAND

By CARL ZAPPE JR.

The boys are going to have new uniforms very soon. The band will pay for them and own them. We will need about 40 suits. The recent concert, tag day and the rummage and cook sale enabled us to raise most of the money and now the Minneapolis Journal has offered to share in its subscription campaign, if only the boys will help, which they should do because it will just about finish the job.

The boys are also asked to join in agreement to the effect that they will be loyal to the band in their attendance at rehearsals and concerts for the next year, otherwise it would be useless to buy suits for them. This action has been made necessary for other reasons also, because, now that the boys are becoming better musicians, some people have undertaken to get them to join the men's band as if they thought that to be an advancement. The boys are well satisfied where they are, are proud to play in their own organization and prefer to be left to decide for themselves when a change would be for the better.

REED WISHES TO CONTINUE INVESTIGATIONS

DECLARES PRIMARY INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE TO MEET IN WASHINGTON

FOR THE PURPOSE OF PROCEEDING WITH THE PENNSYLVANIA INQUIRY

By EVERETT R. HOLLES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Detroit, March 16.—Senator James A. Reed, democrat, Missouri, in an interview with the United Press today declared he had summoned the primary fund investigating committee to meet in Washington Saturday for the purpose of proceeding with the Pennsylvania inquiry.

Reed said he probably would not be able to muster the full committee, but that he was of the opinion the alleged ballot frauds of the Pennsylvania counties should not rest until next session of congress.

"The investigating committee is a permanent body," Reed said. "Although my resolution was blocked during the final hours of congress, the committee has authority to impound the questioned ballots and not wait until next session."

Reed also said he was willing to contribute $1,000, or perhaps more, from personal funds to finance the impounding if necessary.

Following decision of the committee to gather in the Pennsylvania ballots, Senator Keyes, republican of New Hampshire, chairman of the audits and control committee which approves expenses, refused to sign an expense voucher for $1,000 to allow David S. Barry, sergeant-at-arms of the senate, to go into Pennsylvania and get the ballots.

"The committee has more than $30,000 for expenses but they won't let us use it," Reed said. "Rather than let a matter like that block our work I will give $1,000, or more if necessary, to finance it."

Dropping the Pennsylvania ballot discussion with the statement, "We'll soon show them whether the committee is dead," Reed made it clear in no uncertain terms that he is not through with politics.

"I'm still in the swim and fighting hard," he declared.

Norma Shearer Here in "The Demi-Bride"

Norma Shearer's first fling at farce is a success, thus proving that this beautiful young screen player has about as wide a range of acting ability as any woman on the screen.

Miss Shearer's latest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring picture, "The Demi-Bride," in which she appears with Lew Cody, opened yesterday at the Lyceum theatre, where the audience visibly registered its appreciation of Miss Shearer's work in the role of an unsophisticated French school girl in love with a man desired by her stepmother. It will be shown again tonight.

REED WISHES TO CONTINUE INVESTIGATIONS

DECLARES PRIMARY INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE TO MEET IN WASHINGTON

FOR THE PURPOSE OF PROCEEDING WITH THE PENNSYLVANIA INQUIRY

By EVERETT R. HOLLES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Detroit, March 16.—Senator James A. Reed, democrat, Missouri, in an interview with the United Press today declared he had summoned the primary fund investigating committee to meet in Washington Saturday for the purpose of proceeding with the Pennsylvania inquiry.

Reed said he probably would not be able to muster the full committee, but that he was of the opinion the alleged ballot frauds of the Pennsylvania counties should not rest until next session of congress.

"The investigating committee is a permanent body," Reed said. "Although my resolution was blocked during the final hours of congress, the committee has authority to impound the questioned ballots and not wait until next session."

Reed also said he was willing to contribute $1,000, or perhaps more, from personal funds to finance the impounding if necessary.

Following decision of the committee to gather in the Pennsylvania ballots, Senator Keyes, republican of New Hampshire, chairman of the audits and control committee which approves expenses, refused to sign an expense voucher for $1,000 to allow David S. Barry, sergeant-at-arms of the senate, to go into Pennsylvania and get the ballots.

"The committee has more than $30,000 for expenses but they won't let us use it," Reed said. "Rather than let a matter like that block our work I will give $1,000, or more if necessary, to finance it."

Dropping the Pennsylvania ballot discussion with the statement, "We'll soon show them whether the committee is dead," Reed made it clear in no uncertain terms that he is not through with politics.

"I'm still in the swim and fighting hard," he declared.

"Ben Hur"—The Miracle of the Show World

General Lew Wallace's "Ben Hur"

—A Tale of the Christ—that was a stage spectacle twenty-two years and as a book enjoyed a circulation as large as the Bible, will be seen for the first time as a picture in Brainerd, on Thursday, March 24, at the Park theatre, one night only.

Fred Niblo directed the production, which begins with the Wise Men and the Star of Bethlehem, pictures Jerusalem under the Roman tyranny and the condemnation of the Prince of Hur to the galleys. The battle twixt the Roman fleet and the Greek pirates was filmed with a great Ben Hur navy of antique-modelled craft off the coasts of Italy. The celebrated Antioch chariot race, in which Ben Hur and Messala contested for the palm, occupied three months in the making. The final scenes deal with Ben Hur's assembling of legions in the plan to establish a kingdom of Judea, the discovery of his long lost mother and sister in the Vale of Hinnom, the procession of Palm Sunday, and the healing of the sick ones by the Saviour, whereby Ben Hur and his beloved Esther and kinsfolk are reunited.

the amusement world as the funniest of plays for more than a quarter of a century—has been put in films.
